Kaiser's Armies Now Control Railroad Running Eastward Toward Moscow—Fighting Now in Old Russia.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, Aug. 27.—The Russian fortress of Olita, on the Nieman river, thirty miles south of Kovno, has been evacuated, according to official announcement.

In all the wide sweep in Russian territory south of Baltic provinces have been covered during the great Austro-German offensive movement, the fortress of Grodno is the only strongly defended position remaining in hands of Russians. Olita was on the principal Russian line of defense midway between Kovno, already in hands of the Germans, and Grodno. It is about fifty miles southwest of the important railroad center of Vilna, which is on the direct front line to Petrograd. Olita is the ninth important fortress to fall before the invaders in the last three weeks.

White Russia Invaded.
London, Aug. 27.—The Austro-German invaders have not only pressed their opponents into old Russia beyond the political border, but have penetrated well beyond the district of Russia proper, inhabited by the Poles. This enormous advance has now reached a stage in which the troops of Emperor Nicholas are fighting for existence on the soil of White Russia, which for the first time during this war is feeling the effects of invasion.

The main object of the German attack around Brest-Litovsk for a number of days has been the railroad running eastward from the fortress towards Moscow.

Although the admiralty thus far has not issued a report of the recent bombardment of Zeebrugge, on the Belgian coast, additional details of the damage inflicted continues to reach London. The latest dispatch states that the harbor defenses were damaged seriously and several submarines were destroyed.

Transference of considerable bodies of German troops from the western front to the eastern front is reported in press dispatches.

French Aviators Active.
Paris, Aug. 27.—French aviators continue their activities against German positions in possession of the Germans in eastern portions of the country. The latest official announcement states that German aviators also are taking offensive measures in this territory.

SHORTAGE OF COIN NOTED IN FRANCE

Government Will Prohibit Travelers Carrying More Than $10 Worth of Silver Out of Country.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Aug. 27.—Every traveler leaving France hereafter will be required to declare the amount of funds carried in his possession. If more than 50 francs ($10.00) he will be compelled to exchange excess for paper money under a decree issued today by Finance Minister Alexandre Ribot. This action resulted from an investigation of scarcity of silver coin, particularly in the frontier regions. It was ascertained that considerable amounts of silver were being hoarded for export. Even coppers and nickels were sought and exchanged at a premium.

It was suggested unofficially that for the purpose of preventing hoarding during the war, the government should announce its intention of issuing a series of coins after the conclusion of peace demonetizing those now in circulation.

INCOME TAX BOOSTS INTERNAL REVENUE TO RECORD AMOUNT

Corporation and Individual Tax Nets Government $80,000,000, $42,000,000 Under Estimate.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 27.—The greatest total of internal revenue receipts in the history of the government, notwithstanding income tax from individuals was $42,000,000 under the amount estimated by the framers of the income tax law, were recorded in the annual report of the commissioner of internal revenue today.

The aggregate receipts during the fiscal year ending June 30, including the corporation and individual income taxes, reached $415,000,000, against $380,000,000 for the previous year.

Corporations paid $30,144,529 and individuals $41,046,156, a total of $71,190,685. This is an increase of $5,809,420 over the previous year, which, however, embraced only ten months.

In congress when the law was enacted, the framers of the bill announced that for the fiscal year 1915 the corporation tax revenue would be $39,000,000 and the income tax $33,000,000, the latter being double the actual collection.

At the time the bill was passed it was explained that the world wide depression on account of the war in 1914 partly explains the falling off from the original estimate, and that when the framers of the law figured that there were at least 100 people in the United States with incomes of $1,000,000 or more there were only forty-one having such incomes.

BISHOP AT WINONA SHOT BY EX-PRIEST

Bishop Patrick Heffron of Winona Diocese Shot Twice Over Heart By Frenchman.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Winona, Minn., Aug. 27.—Right Rev. Patrick R. Heffron, bishop of Winona diocese, was shot shortly before nine o'clock this morning in his library at Terrace Heights by Rev. Father A. L. Lesches, a demoted priest, who had been spending the past week at St. Mary's College, diocesan headquarters here, seeking for an appointment which Bishop Heffron had refused to give him.

The priest entered the library as the bishop was reading, and without warning drew a 22-caliber revolver and shot twice at the bishop. One bullet took effect in the right side of the chest, entering over the fourth rib and penetrating the lung. The other wound was a flesh one in the hip.

The attending physicians, although admitting the chest wound is serious, feel quite hopeful for the bishop's recovery if complications do not set in. After doing the shooting Father Lesches returned to his rooms in St. Mary's College, and looking himself up here soon after by the sheriff and chief of police, who forced an entrance at the point of revolvers.

The would-be assassin is now locked up in the county jail. He is 46 years of age, of French birth, and came to this country in 1893. He had been located previously at Mankato, Rochester, and Wabasha, Minnesota.

Lesches had not been assigned to regular work in the priesthood for several years, but visited around among his fellow priests and assisted them in leading mass and other duties. The demoted priest was not mentally strong, but it was thought he was harmless.

At the jail Lesches said he shot the bishop because he refused to assign him to work. Contrary to first report the shooting of Bishop Heffron took place in the private chapel in St. Mary's College, where the bishop was celebrating mass.

NO MORE SPEECHES LIKE ROOSEVELT'S GARRISON ORDERS

Secretary of War Rules Against Bombastic Talk to Civilian Soldiers at Plattsburg.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 27.—Secretary Garrison made public today Major General Wood's reply to the secretary's telegram of yesterday directing that no repetition be permitted of the incident at Plattsburg camp, precipitated by former President Roosevelt's speech to the men in training there.

A war telegram received and policy laid down will be rigidly adhered to, "General Wood telegraphed to me," said the secretary, "I see he blames the whole thing to me. He takes the position that it is notorious that he has the habit of making indiscreet speeches, and that if he intended to go to Plattsburg and if so, to head him off and save him from himself."

"Well, maybe that's so, but it is a rather large order. He is a very active man, and I am a very busy one, and it's going to be a pretty hard job for me to keep my eye on him all the time," said the secretary, "I myself reminds me of the story of a Maine farmer, who, when on his way to the railroad station one morning, met a friend.

"Where are you going?" said the friend. He replied: "I'm going down to Bangor to get drunk—and great lord how I do dread it."

Bryan Approves.
Kansas City, Aug. 27.—William J. Bryan, former secretary of state, who passed through Kansas City today on his way to fill speaking engagements in Kansas, had this to say regarding the developments growing out of ex-President Roosevelt's speech at Plattsburg, New York, military training camp:

"I am glad to notice Secretary Garrison is disposed to restrict the camp to work for which they were established. During the last two weeks they seemed to have served more of a platform for dingoes to talk from than for instruction in the art of war."

PREACHER'S MURDER REMAINS AN ENIGMA

GARY POLICE HOLD ONE MAN UNDER ARREST AND DETAIN SEVERAL SUSPECTS.

MYSTERY IN LETTERS

Missives Believed to Have Been Written By Members of Congregation Will Be Thoroughly Traced.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Gary, Ind., Aug. 27.—One man is under arrest and several are detained for examination by the police today, in an effort to apprehend the murderer of Rev. Edmund A. H. Kayser of Tollestien, a suburb, and determine the motive for the act. The names of the men are withheld, and Chief of Police Heintz refuses to disclose the nature of the evidence against them until he has made further investigation.

Motive Still Doubtful.
He admitted today he had not discovered whether the clergyman was killed because of his pro-German utterances or for other acts which brought him the enmity of some of his neighbors.

Elmer Le Roy, an Englishman, who is said to have denounced Kayser in his church some weeks ago, was taken into custody but later released. A trunk which the clergyman may contain proof of a plot to assassinate the minister was brought to the station this morning and its contents will be examined during the day.

Kayser's multitudinous activities have led the investigators in many directions. Some disclosures tended to strengthen the theory that the clergyman was shot as a result of political conspiracy. Other evidence disclosed today indicate that enemies incited as result of financial feelings were sufficiently virulent to lead to the crime.

The letters were written in German, but the postmaster had them translated at the time they were brought to him by Rev. Mr. Kayser. They were clear and explicit in their meaning, and made it plain that a plot had been formed to kill the pastor.

The police are satisfied that the murder was committed by members of Rev. Mr. Kayser's own congregation. They also are satisfied as to the real motive, but have not abandoned entirely a theory that sympathizers of the allies in the war may have taken part in the crime.

ARABIC CASE NEAR PACIFIC ADJUSTMENT

Bernstorff Tells Lansing That "Full Satisfaction" Will Be Given By Germany.

MORE THAN DISAVOWAL

Imperial Government Now Seems Anxious to Continue Friendly Relations With United States.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 27.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, acting on instructions from Berlin, notified Secretary Lansing today that "full satisfaction" would be given to the United States for the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic. The ambassador explained that Germany would make more than a mere disavowal, if it found that the Arabic was sunk without warning.

Confers With Lansing.
Count Von Bernstorff called at the state department and conferred with Secretary Lansing nearly half an hour. It had been suggested that perhaps Germany was ready also to make reparation for the American lives lost on the Lusitania, but that subject did not come up at today's conference. The disposition of the German embassy is to take up one step at a time.

The ambassador did not make public the extent of the discussions from Berlin on which he acted, but it was understood they coincided entirely with the statement of the German chancellor in Associated Press dispatches from Berlin yesterday, expressing willingness of the German government to make fullest reparation if it is shown finally that the Arabic was torpedoed without warning.

No Report Received.
So far the German admiralty has received no report from submarines which were operating in the Arabic's vicinity. Further communications now are expected from Berlin to the German ambassador and to the state department from Ambassador Gerard which would report on the progress to a point where attacks on passenger carrying ships will be definitely discontinued, at least while the subject is under further discussion. The crisis between the two countries is now regarded as having passed into the realm of diplomacy.

Future relations between the United States and Germany were regarded much more hopefully today than for many weeks past. Administration officials believed that indications from Berlin that the imperial government was striving to settle differences between the two countries, growing out of Germany's submarine warfare, presaged a better understanding and an ultimate peaceful settlement.

New York, Aug. 27.—Cable advices to the White Star line offices here regarding the Arabic's passengers state that despite earlier dispatches to the body of Mrs. Josephine Bruguiere of New York has not been found, nor has the body of Dr. Edmund F. Woods, the second missing American.

The British admiralty reports that although search has continued a thorough search, only two bodies have been recovered, one probably a steward and the other an unidentified woman.

Careful inquiry now fixes the total number of passengers lost as eighteen, with twenty-five members of the crew, an additional member of the crew having expired in the hospital at Queenstown, making a total of forty-four persons.

Interprets America's Policy.
London, Aug. 27.—It was suggested that the American government will be satisfied if commanders of German submarines always warn passengers on vessels and place the passengers in boats before striking the vessels, says the Spectator.

"We do not believe for a moment that America would consent to this caricature of satisfying international law and humane considerations. "Imagine placing women and children in small boats, sixty miles from land, in a high winter sea, and giving cold, and for? Now we are sure that if Germany means to prevent America from taking action of some kind, she will have to take her policy drastically."

TWO HUNDRED ENJOY HIKE ON THURSDAY

Children of City Playgrounds Enjoy
Day's Outing at Crystal Springs.

Over two hundred boys and girls went on the annual joint hike of the four playgrounds held yesterday. The start was made at nine o'clock for Crystal Springs where a delightful outing was enjoyed. The principal events on the program were the two baseball games between the directors nine and Byron Shabo's team. One game was played in the morning and the other in the afternoon. Both games resulted in victories for the directors the first game ending 2 to 1 and the afternoon score 7 to 3. Kakuska twirled the first game for the losers while Vinay was in the box to receive the second defeat. Hemming handled both games for the directors. Byron Shabo, captain of the losers was sent to the club house by Umpire Navock in the second game for disputing a decision at home plate. The final swimming class of the year will be held tomorrow morning at Goose Island as the playgrounds will close for the year Saturday afternoon. A few more sets of tennis will be played today at the Jefferson school courts to decide the championships in the various divisions. The preliminary games were played Wednesday.

Personal Mention.
Director Walter C. Cox of the playgrounds will entertain the four directors at the home of Peter Jamieson at a six-thirty o'clock dinner to night.

UNIQUE CAFETERIA FEEDS THOUSANDS

SYSTEM ENABLES THOUSAND
DELEGATES TO BE FED DAILY
AT MILTON CONFERENCE.

STEAM HEATED VIANDS

Pipes Extending From Boilers in College Building to Temporary Building Erected for Lunch Purposes.

By Sunday night it is expected that six thousand people, all delegates to the Seventh-Day Baptist general conference now being held at Milton, will have been fed at the large cafeteria building, located on the college campus here. The system of feeding is most novel in its make-up, and the cost of the food is being borne by the college. The cafeteria building, erected for the purpose of a lunch room, has afforded accommodations to 2,500 delegates.

Close to eighty people are in charge of the cafeteria building. The village of Milton being too small to accommodate the eight hundred registered delegates from throughout the country, it was found necessary to erect temporary quarters to serve the purpose of a lunch room. The Harvard or cafeteria style was adopted and is meeting with great success.

In the building, long tables where the visitors eat. In the center is the sideboard section where the food is handed out. To give out the best kind of food at the lowest possible price is the aim, and at an average of twenty cents a person can secure the best kind of meals. Perhaps the most interesting phase of the cafeteria system is the way the cooking is done. Eight large barrels at one corner of the cooking room are used as the stoves, with steam coming from pipes at the bottom of each barrel. The boilers in the basement of the Whitcomb memorial hall, which furnish heat for the college buildings in cold weather, are this week furnishing the steam that cooks everything. The men needed to cook viands to feed one thousand people a day," says M. M. Lanphere, who has complete charge of the cooking department. Two hundred and eighty feet of pipe has been laid for use in this building.

In the center of the cafeteria room, ice cold water can be had. An additional pipe runs from the memorial hall, furnishing water to drink. This water passes through a coiled tube in a large tank, where ice is kept, thus leaving the water perfectly sanitary. In this tank is the Erect Kitchen Tent.

In the large tent, erected to the south of the building, a force of men and women are at work cleaning dishes and preparing for the succeeding meal. A large tank with steam is used to wash and dry the dishes, saving much time.

Miss Lou H. Bowerman of this city is acting as caterer at the building, and seasons all viands. She is assisted by four women. N. G. Inglis has charge of the kitchen department, while E. O. Crandall is superintendent of the dish washing section. Norton Lowther has direct charge of the waiters and of the serving department, forty waiters being hired for the week.

Time to Cook Viands.
An estimate of how long it takes to cook the various foods is interesting. Potatoes can be cooked in thirty minutes; steam corn in twenty minutes; eggs in three minutes; cabbage in ten minutes; rice in over two hours; macaroni and cheese in about two and a half hours. Meats require much longer time for preparation. Ham, pork and beef, which are the three chief meats used, are placed in one of the barrels the night before, and cooked for about two hours. They are then seasoned and the next morning are allowed to simmer about four hours. The coffee and tea is boiled by steam, eighteen gallons of coffee being prepared daily and about two gallons of tea.

The largest attendance at any one meal has been 515, but Saturday and Sunday it is expected that a thousand will be served. The menu and prices are interesting, a good meal averaging from eighteen to twenty-two cents. Following is the menu as arranged Thursday.

Cafeteria Prices Low.
Roast beef or pork, 10 cents; boiled eggs, 4 cents; potatoes, 2 cents; baked beans, 5 cents; corn, 2 cents; tomatoes, 1 cent; bread, 1 cent; butter, 1 cent; pickles, 1 cent; cheese, 1 cent; pie, 5 cents; ice cream, 5 to 10 cents; coffee, 5 cents; tea, 5 cents; milk, 5 cents; peaches, 3 cents; 2 cents; cantaloupe, 5 cents; apples, 3 cents; pineapple, 5 cents; apple sauce, 5 cents; cake, 5 cents; jelly, 5 cents; bread and milk, 10 cents; gingerbread, 10 cents; 10 cream or grape nuts and cream, 10 cents; cold meat, 10 cents; potato salad, 5 cents; cream spuds, 5 cents.

Large Crowds.
Large crowds attend every session at the conference. The college gymnasium is tastefully decorated in beautiful flowers and in colored ribbons. Chairs are closely set together and the gymnasium is being taxed to its capacity. As the "gym" holds considerably over a thousand people, it is estimated that twelve hundred were present at the Thursday night session.

Ancient Dentistry.

Dentistry seems to have been practiced on this side of the ocean almost as early as in Europe or Asia. It is quite likely, indeed, that the art of filling teeth was first discovered here. At any rate, pre-Columbian skulls from both Ecuador and Mexico are in evidence having teeth richly inlaid with gold and in some instances precious stones.

BOB FUCIK TO HURL AGAINST "FAIRIES"

Is Sure to be on Mound for the Cardinals Against the Beloit Fairies Sunday Afternoon.

It is now an assured fact that Bob Fucik will do the hurling for the Janesville Cardinals Sunday afternoon when they meet Sam Lafferty and the Beloit Fairies in the climax of the season. The deal was closed yesterday, where the big "zip" boy will forsake White-water for the game here Sunday. Reports show that Delaney, who is to catch Fucik, is one of the best throwers in Chicago and box scores show that he made eight assists in one game against the White Giants a week ago and that no one stole on him. For a start, the Cardinals have secured Johnson of Chicago, reported to be a fast fielder and a heavy hitter. With this place filled the Cardinal infield looks twenty-five percent better than the field of the Beloit nine and the addition of Ross adds strength to the outfield.

MARY GARDEN TO SING HERE

World's Most Famous Operatic Star to Visit Janesville.

On the night of December 3rd, Janesville will be visited by the greatest star in the operatic firmament.

Mary Garden is a name known to every man, woman and child not only in America, but also in Europe and in Asia and the Orient. A thousand times and in a thousand ways the facile pens of the daily press reporters have told of Mary Garden's triumphs in operatic performances—triumphs of which there have been no parallel in modern history—yet it has remained for her to create possibly her most conspicuous success in concert.

Last June in London Mary Garden created a sensation by singing French and American songs to an audience of two hundred over twelve thousand people. Her brilliant singing of such roles as "Louise," "Tosca," "Thais," "Salome," "The Juggler of Notre Dame" and "Mona Vanna" has placed her for all time among the greatest operatic figures the world has ever known.

Mary Garden is just entering the full plenitude of her powers as a singer and actress, and the present season she will be heard in only a limited number of cities. She will have the assistance, in her concert tour, of Louis Siegel, the distinguished young American violinist, and Mr. Camille Decrus, the famous French Pianist, who formerly was associated with Ysaye.

Miss Garden will sing not only some of the operatic arias which have made her famous the world over, but will also sing some American and Scotch songs dear to the heart of all music-lovers.

The management of the Myers Theatre, where Miss Garden will sing, urges that reservations be made early as already inquiries have come in from all over the southern part of the state for seats for this important event. It is understood that parties will be made up to come by special train from four or five of the surrounding towns.

May Wed: Licenses to marry have been issued to Max C. Siebert and Bertha R. Heinz, both of this city, and to George V. Sly of Rockton and Grace King of Beloit.

PERCH FRY PLANTED NEAR YOST'S PARK

Twenty-Four Cans of "Fingerlinks" Placed in Rock River by Sportsmen's Club.

Twenty-four cans of perch minnows, commonly called "fingerlinks", were planted today near Yost's Park in Rock River under the supervision of the Rock County Rod and Gun Club. Each can contained many thousands of the fish, the exact number not being known to the club members who obtained the shipment. The fish were in most excellent condition and the cold weather prevented any loss during the shipping from the hatchery. The shipment arrived yesterday.

Another shipment of the perch fry is expected to arrive within a fortnight to be planted between the upper dam at Janesville and the Four Mile bridge. Sportsmen have found it hard to obtain fish fry this year, owing to the fact that the state hatcheries have experienced bad luck in their work. The lack of sunshine and good weather prevented the hatching of eggs and high water also checked the spawning of shallow places in the lakes and Mississippi river for small fish to be transplanted.

The Rock County Rod and Gun Club are also to obtain more perch fry for Rock county, the shipment from the federal game reserve being expected in the reserve establishment north of the city. All of the hems, eleven in number, have broods numbering from eight to fifteen young and they have not scattered to any great degree. With good protection and co-operation with the sportsmen, a success can be made of raising them.

The club is continuing in their efforts to protect game and their work in propagation is showing greater results daily. Many of the members have neglected to pay this year's dues and the club officers are seeking the funds in order to be able to accomplish more work.

DETROIT GOLF TOURNEY STARTS ON SATURDAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Detroit, Mich., Aug. 27.—Detroit tomorrow will be the host to the crack amateur golfers of America and, in seven days of play, the twenty-first annual championship of the United States Golf association will be determined. The play will be on the Detroit Country club links.

The tournament is the hatching event of the year in golf circles. A. J. Caldwell, secretary of the tournament committee, declared today the entry list is one of the best and brightest in the history of the meet. Practically all of the stars in the country will participate, including the following: Jerome D. Travers,

"Chick" Evans, Francis Ouimet, W. C. Fownes, Jr., G. A. Ormiston, Ned Sawyer, E. H. Bankhard, Harry Davis, R. Y. Hayne, Donald Edwards, Kenneth Edwards, George Lyle, Albert Seckel, Walter Egan and Jimmy Stundish.

Of this list, Travers and Fownes are the only former champions, but with "Chick" Evans, western amateur champion, Harry Davis, Panama-Pacific titleholder, R. Y. Hayne, coast champion, and Albert Seckel, winner of the 1911 western amateur championship, are expected to offer opposition that will make Champion Ouimet show his best to retain the title he annexed last year.

Seven days will be devoted to the playing of the national championship, the qualifying round starting early tomorrow. Only 18 holes will be played the first day. Monday, the wedding-out process will be continued, but this time over the 36-hole course. Medal play will rule on both days.

Match play for 36-hole rounds will start Tuesday and continue until the final match is reached. The finals will be staged Saturday.

The Country club course is reported to be in excellent condition for the start of play. Wardens and British cranks have pronounced the course one of the three best in America, ranking it with the Mayfield links at Cleveland, and the Toronto, Ont., course.

The many social activities that will feature the tournament will start tonight when the Country club will entertain the officers of the United States Golf association at a banquet.

MORRIS MILLER

The Rutgers college football squad has been training for some weeks on a specially hired farm with the idea of being in perfect shape both from a physical and gridiron standpoint, when the season opens next month. Just what Princeton will say about carrying the "back to the farm" campaign to this extreme, in case Rutgers defeats the Tigers on October 2, should prove interesting reading.

Toledo has decided to have baseball at any cost. Wealthy citizens of that city are taking turns in staging matinees at Swayne field, old home of the Spiders, in which major leaguers perform. President Coates of the RailLight company has just completed arrangements to have both the Indians and Boston Red Sox play in Toledo this month.

Comiskey's interview on the umpiring in the American league is the most remarkable in the history of baseball. We don't mean his statement that the umpiring is punk.

Everybody admits that. But he actually concedes that there is such a thing as a good umpire.

Another California tennis demon, Elia Fotrell, semi-finalist in the national tournament at Newport last season and winner of the Ohio state singles title, has made his reappearance on the courts. Fotrell has accepted several invitations to play in the east this fall. He will compete in the tri-state tourney at Cincinnati next month. Fotrell has been working on his father's ranch, which is about forty miles from San Francisco. Once or twice a month he would take his racket and go to Frisco and play his favorite game. At the present time he has just completed two weeks of hard training in preparation for tournament competition.

When everyone thought old Battling Nelson was all through, dead and buried, pugilistically speaking, along comes that same individual with the information that he's going to fight again the Labor day at Alhambra, Mex. "I'll celebrate my nineteenth anniversary as a fighter by meeting some Texas cowpuncher twenty rounds or less," the Battler postcards. "If I'm successful, I'll meet Wish for the title later on." It's a hard job to keep a fighter who likes to fight restrained. The old Battler is one of that type. Been in the game nearly twenty years and still wants to battle.

Father Time gets 'em all sooner or later. "Topsy" Hartzel, ex-Spider manager, is the latest to fall before the old man's relentless attack. Hartzel has just announced his resignation from the Port Wayne club, stating that he's through for good. Topsy in his time was one of the game's greatest outfielders. He went through his baseball life with honor. He came up from the minors, played big time ball, went back to the bush and now he learns even this is too fast for him. Hartzel is a native of Wellington, Ont., and was one of the smallest players to ever make good in fast company, standing but five feet five inches in height.

A western gun club which has maintained a same shooting range for many years, recently degenerated a squad of laborers to comb the ground for spent bullets. The men gathered more than twenty-five tons of shot, which were sold at the rate of seventy dollars a ton. Other clubs are beginning to do likewise.

When Jack Powell and Bobby Wallace were teammates on the Browns they were very clubby, so clubby that Powell always borrowed his "chews" from Wallace. In ten years he borrowed a lot of tobacco that he hadn't returned. But among the donations on "Wallace day" recently was an unbranded package, which Red McAuliffe carried to the scene of action. It contained ninety-eight packages of five-cent scrap tobacco, the kind Wallace once used. Also this laconic message: "I still owe you two, Bob."

NEW RECORD MADE BY THE WHITE SOX

Chicago Americans Lose to Senators in Long Game.—Cubs Tie Braves.—Tigers Trim Red Sox in Extra Inning Combat.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Pennant hopes for the Chicago White Sox fans suffered a lousy kick yesterday when the Washington team was given the game by the Sox through a benchhead play. The final score was 2 to 1 in thirteen innings of play. The Sox have set a new world's record for extra inning games in succession for the Sox and Senators played 13 innings Tuesday, 14 on Wednesday and 13 yesterday, finishing with a record of 40 innings in three straight games. Ten Russell and Joe. Soxers fought a hard duel on the slab yesterday, both souping up on even terms. Up to the twelfth both pitchers had yielded for four safe blows and both had been going non-speed with the route. Boehling weakened at the end and with the count a continual series of goose eggs, the teams tied with one run apiece in the 12th. Managerial strategy was responsible for the victory. A switch in the 12th by Rowland, put a score across. The Senators scored their tying run on a bad play when Miller hit to Jackson and the new Sox holder threw the ball only in the general direction of the bases, allowing the runner to score when none of the Sox infielders stopped the ball in its wild flight. The mighty Walter Johnson took the slab in the thirteenth with the score tied and the winning run was scored when one of the Sox fielders caught a foul off Johnson's bat. Philadelphia meets the Sox today.

Cubs-Braves a Tie.
Boston, Mass., Aug. 27.—Jimmy Archer spoiled the Cubs chances of winning the game yesterday by the Braves, a fall at third base in the crisis ending the game a tie, 4 to 4, because of darkness. A double header will be staged this afternoon and the Braves are putting forth all efforts to win both games.

The stunt of Archer with that of Knisely occurred in the seventh inning. With two Cubs on the sack, Fischer singled and Archer rounded third from second when he stubbed his toes and was hurt in the fall. Knisely, who was coaching, put his hand on Archer's arm and told him to stop. Archer was right on the job to have the Cub man called out. Chicago used three pitchers, Adams, Zabel and Lavender, and the Braves two, Nehr and Eichelberger.

Cobb Wins Game.
Detroit, Mich., Aug. 27.—Detroit and Boston today played the third half-raising ball game of their crucial series and the Tigers won it in the twelfth inning, 7 to 6. Alvin Dark and Cobb in the ninth enabled the league leaders to score four tallies and enjoy a one run lead. Leonard passed Kavanagh in the Detroit half; two infield outs put the pinch hitter on third, and Crawford sent a single whistling past Wagner, tying the score.

Cobb opened the twelfth with a single to left, took second on Crawford's sacrifice, and walked home when Veach hit to the left field wall.

After Cobb was called out on trying to steal second in the fifth inning, he twice caught Umpire O'Loughlin by the arm, but was allowed to remain in the game. President Johnson of the American league saw the incident. Cobb celebrated the tenth anniversary of his debut as a Detroit player and was presented with a bouquet of roses.

KNIGHT OF STRATHMORE IS BADLY BEATEN OVER BELOIT TRACK THURSDAY

The Knight of Strathmore, the Monroe horse, who "cleaned up" on the free-for-all at the Janesville and Evansville fairs, was badly beaten at the Beloit races yesterday, which were witnessed by several hundred Janesville fair visitors. In the free-for-all pace, Chamberlaine won three straight heats and Minnie Chimes second. The Knight went third and the positions in all the heats were unchanged.

Chamberlaine, owned by Ella Rease of St. Paul, and driven by Dan Allen, broke the Beloit track record of 2:10 when she won the last heat of the free-for-all in 2:08 1/2. Summary: Free-for-all pace, purse $400—Chamberlaine (Alleman) 1 1 1 Minnie Chimes (McVay) 2 2 2 Knight of Strathmore (Amundson) 3 3 3 J. O. (Dean) 4 4 4 Time—2:10 1/2; 2:10 1/2; 2:08 1/2. 2:25 pace, purse $400—Martha A. J. (Mitchell) 2 1 1 Fern (Clifton) 1 3 7 Myrtle Patch (Dean) 7 3 2 Real Patca (Alleman) 4 4 3 2 Miss Mary Sheridan, Lament Riser, and H. N. Gentry slugs. In the long trot, time—2:13 1/2; 2:14 1/2; 2:14 1/2. 2:15 trot, purse $400—Abu Talim (Pearson) 3 3 3 Eva Barr (Fulton) 3 3 3 Dublin Lady (Castle) 3 3 4 Caucus Star (Hill) 4 4 2 The Deacon (Lavaller) 5 5 2 Time—2:13 1/2; 2:13 1/2; 2:13 1/2.

Shorter and snarer spring training trips are going to be in style in the major leagues next spring. There are two reasons. Economy is one of them, although not the compelling one, in all probability. For the long training trip sometimes has been made profitable financially. The deciding point will be the impossibility of keeping ball players on edge for six months after they have spent a preliminary two months in working up to that edge.

"THE Man in the Tower" is the Weber and Heilbroner observer of styles in New York.

His observations are daily printed in the metropolitan papers in the Weber and Heilbroner advertisements.

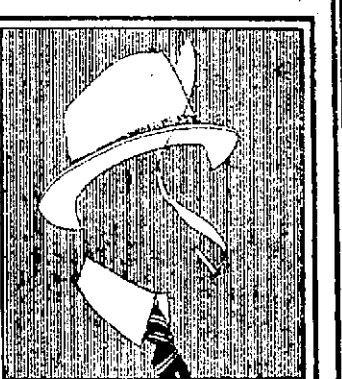

This week he is showing the new Weber and Heilbroner Fall hats to New Yorkers.

At the same moment, we are showing them here.

It is the result of close observation of clothes tendencies—of hat and haberdashery styles—seasonable and reasonable—for the young man and the progressive business man.

It embodies THE BEST in New York styles of the moment—is THE authoritative hat.

In pearl gray, greens, browns and dark smoke gray. Price, $3—the same here and in New York.

The stiff hat, also $3, is equally smart and conservative. Both are shown in various proportions.

IS PESSIMISTIC.

Delay of definite action by President Wilson on the sinking of the Arabic and the failure of Germany to make any formal reply to the note, has caused some of the eastern newspapers to come forth openly and criticize the president, on what the Wall Street Journal calls his Fabian policy. They do not take into consideration that the American people as a whole do not desire to become embroiled in the European war nor do they desire to do any overt act that will bring about such a condition of delay.

Many of these same editorial writers who object to President Wilson's delay in acting Germany sharply to task for failure to act in the Arabic action, fail to remember that Americans were killed in Mexico over a year ago, that American troops were landed and Mexican cities occupied but no war came. They fail to appreciate the fact that even today Mexico is openly insulting the American flag—the stars and stripes—and remain unpunished, while diplomatic relations continue.

Of course everyone appreciates that you might as well try to argue with a man-eating Bengal tiger as with the Mexican revolutionist, but why not clean up affairs at home before joining issues with this nation for an emergency instead of throwing it into a world struggle by some unwarranted action unprepared. It would take a year to equip and drill an armed force that would be good for anything but coast defenses. It would take an equal length of time to put the navy into fighting trim.

The United States does not wish war. It wants peace. It does not, however, desire peace at any price. The German representative to this country has stated that if it is found that the commander of the submarine that sank the Arabic disobeyed his orders, Germany will make full reparation. This may alleviate the situation, but, however the tone of the eastern press is shown in the following editorial from the Wall Street Journal on the dangers of delay.

will wait for Germany's reply before taking action about the Arabic" is open to one destructive objection. "Suppose Germany does not reply?"

THE STRANGLE HOLD.

It is wonderful what a strangle hold some of the labor institutions have upon the laws of various states. These organizations maintain expensive lobbies at the various state capitals, watch legislation closely and in some cases really intimidate the members of the legislature into voting for their particular pet measure or against some measure that would really—partially, at least—release the strangle hold that these labor leaders have upon the general public.

This was particularly true of several measures now before the last session of the Wisconsin legislature. Despite the counterclaims of some of the ultra rabid socialist members, there were many laws passed which aid materially but a small portion of the labor element of the state, and work, in some cases, hardships on the small property-owner.

Laws for public safety, laws for public sanitation, laws for the general good of the people generally are not referred to in this classification, but the laws that legislate for a class, a small class at that, as against the general mass are certainly injurious.

No one admits that the laws of any state are perfect. No one dares to say there is not need for decided improvement in many lines of industry toward safeguarding the life and limbs of employees. The various commissions are doing good work in the interest of the working man and no one objects, but on the other hand wants their labors to continue and the laws made so plain there will be no mistake in their interpretation.

One example of the legislation for a particular class—or line of industry—is aptly illustrated in the following ruling by the attorney general on a law on the statutes relative to employees of any corporation not engaged in mining, even though such employees are perfectly competent to make plumbing repairs or install new work, may not do such work for their employer unless they are duly licensed under the laws of Wisconsin.

This is not in the interest of public safety or public sanitation, but merely for special interests as far as can be seen and at that for a small part of the laboring class as a whole.

Governor Philipp has begun his campaign of education for the voters of the state as to what the "tax-eaters" prevented him from accomplishing at Madison this past winter without waiting for "Friend Bob" to rally forth and begin his attack on the administration.

Well, Whitte helped pass those bills which are designed to save the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars in the next two years, and it is no wonder the governor picked him out as the man to act as the "watch dog" of the treasury during the remainder of his administration.

Talking about the weather. How is the Culebra slide progressing? Nice, we hope, for we may wish to see that Panama canal some time to move battleships in a hurry or transport munitions of war.

Georgia will have to convict that lynching party or stand convicted itself. No half way coroner's jury verdict that Leo Frank died from being hung to a tree will go with the general public.

No one can accuse the weather man of playing to the grandstand this year to say the least. He has been impartial, permitting the rain to fall upon the just as well as the unjust.

These training camps of business men are making a great hit. The country over and may help solve the defense problem should we ever need a standing army all at once.

Things might be worse. Just suppose that it was snowing and the ice harvest was on, and there was a shortage in coal or a hundred other disagreeable things all at once.

Justice Hughes may yet go down in history as the one man who consistently swatted the presidential bee whenever it appeared.

Old-fashioned squirrel shooting was good for the marksmanship of the average citizen, but a trifle hard on the squirrel.

Some former favorite sons are candidates for the political phans' home and each four years finds a few more added to the list.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

Speaking of Money.
It's great to have a million;
A feller can stand pat;
Or even a hundred thousand—
A man can live on that.
And fifty thousand dollars
Is not so very bad;
If I could get but thirty,
I'd be most mighty glad.
I might say that five thousand
Would look real swell to me,
Or even say twelve hundred,
It's not so bad to see.

Five hundred ain't so fancy.
Some folks would think it tame;
But I would take one hundred
And be glad just the same.
And get right down to fifty,
Some people call it small,
But twenty-five is better.
Than having none at all.
Ten dollars ain't so many,
Your money, but man alive,
I'll give you my opinion,
It's great to have a five.

The Hickeyville Clarion.
A great many persons have bragged that they have made their fortunes with their hands. There is nothing particularly unique about this. William Whipple, the popular and congenial grocerman of our town, made his fortune with his hands, and he is proud of it. He has weighed at least one of his hands with every pound of sugar, coffee or cheese that he has sold during the last twenty years.

Abijah Jones, proprietor of the hutzel, is quite stylish nowadays. He has got some fancy bills of fare, which he sent to New York for, and nobody can read 'em. No matter what you order, you get roast beef and brown gravy or roast pork and apple sauce just the same.

The Farmer and His Wife.
Bill Turner was a farmer, he labored all his life. He didn't have no schoolin' and neither had his wife. But Bill was built for business and made the wheels go round, and left a healthy fortune when they put him under ground. He was always taking chances, paid a hundred for a bull. His neighbors called him crazy, but he left a stable full of cows that broke the record, making butter by the ton, an' Bill had his picture printed in the Squeedunk Weekly Sun. He had newfangled notions of making farming pay. He even bought a foul machine to help him load his hay. The neighbors fairly snorted when they saw the bloomin' thing; said Bill would never make it work. It wasn't worth a ding! Bill didn't say a single word, an' didn't care a darn about what they said, for slick as grease his hay went in the barn an' hour before a thunder storm came sailin' out that way and caught his neighbors in a pinch and spoiled their new-mown hay. Bill's neighbors put their milk in cans and set 'em in a tank. Bill skimmed his milk in a machine that turned with a crank. Smith chopped his firewood with an ax. Bill used some gasoline and saved a hundred dollars a day with another blame machine.

Today Bill's wife rides in a car and dresses up in silk. Smith's wife rides in a wagon and keeps on skinnin' milk.

The Ice man.
He backs his wagon to our door About the sleepy hour of four. Let's out a yell then some more, This energetic ice man! There comes a rumbled, then a whack, As something heavy hits our shack, And sends cold shivers up our back— A good aim has the ice man.

Just when a fellow's dreaming nice, He hears the warning cry of "ice!" Which makes him think about the price To settle with the ice man. Just when a fellow has forgot His trouble and has got a lot Of money for to buy a yacht— He hears the howling ice man.

He is a monarch in a way Of all the things he can survey, He is a king who's come to stay— The high and mighty ice man. He is the great get that the dough, It matters not where he may go, For just one summer time or so, I'd like to be the ice man.

SNAP SHOTS

The trouble with Diogenes was not that there was no honest man, but that he tried to find them with a lantern.

Pocahontas seems to have been the only thrifty Indian in history. She saved Captain John Smith.

A boy will go to a party if he is invited. But his preference is to be left off the invitation list in order that he may have an excuse for staying the "refreshments" off the back porch.

Here is another inviolable rule: The man with grease spots on his coat should not wear a carnation in his buttonhole.

Tank Beverly says that if fish could vote the anglerworm would be elected.

Buck Kilby says his objection to equal suffrage is that the ballot can not be conferred upon women without giving the suffragettes the right to vote.

Sim Heckles blows so much that he generally is known as "Southwest Wind."

It may be worth while to remember that if it had not been for his reputation as a liar, Ananias would have been forgotten long ago.

It is Eph Wiley's notion that no poor man can afford to hold a small set of three.

If the notice mentions the date on which the deceased united with the church, his minister wrote it. If it doesn't, one of the reporters wrote it.

Kernels of The Law

Runaway Horses.
The owner of a runaway horse is only liable for the damage resulting when the evidence of the case shows some negligence on his part. The mere fact that a horse gets loose and runs away is not enough to show negligence because such a mistake is more often explained to have been an accident in spite of the exercise of reasonable care. It may even have been the fault of a trespasser or may have been due to some other cause for which the owner is not responsible.

But if the driver of the horse loses control through his own fault as a result of racing or speeding he is guilty of negligence and is liable for damages. He may be negligent in leaving the horse standing unhitched or unhitched and where the animal can run away and cause damage. This is only what is called prima facie evidence of negligence, i. e., the question being there is negligence in so doing is for the jury to decide, and the burden of proof then falls on the owner to show that it was not negligence or carelessness to leave that particular horse unhitched or to leave the horse unhitched at that particular place. Unless he can show the jury that his omission was not negligence he is liable for damages. Negligence may also consist in the fact of driving a vicious, unbroken or unmanageable horse upon a public street where there is considerable traffic.

SIDE TALKS

By RUTH CAMERON

A PLEA FOR SHORT SERMONS.

This is a plea for short sermons in our churches. I make it not flippantly or irreverently, but in the sincere belief that if our ministers tried to say what they have to say as simply and concisely as possible, instead of trying to fill a certain set time, we should all get more out of our church-going.

How often do you hear a sermon which could not be boiled down to a fifteen or twenty minute talk and thereby made more effective?

If there is anywhere a thing said in two sentences that could have been said as clearly and as engagingly and as forcibly said in one, then it is an amateur work, a great writer once said.

That is true of course. But we do not ask the minister to shorten his sermons merely for the sake of artistry. We want him to do it for the sake of results, for the purpose of holding the attention of his hearers every minute and of leaving a simple, clear-cut impression.

A minister has a thought. Something impresses him and inspires him. That is the seed of his sermon. Now suppose he were to tell that thought to some friend. He would put it in as clear and simple language as possible; he would light it up with illustration, and incident perhaps, but he certainly wouldn't bury it in rhetoric.

Isn't a Minister's Congregation His Friends?

Well, now, shouldn't a minister's congregation be his friends? Shouldn't they have the right to have that thought presented to them in the same simple, friendly fashion? They have the right to have that thought presented to them in the same simple, friendly fashion. They have the right to have that thought presented to them in the same simple, friendly fashion.

What has the congregation done? Well, they've put the minister in the straight-jacket of a set form. They have prescribed that his sermon shall last a certain time and so they've put the minister in the straight-jacket of a set form.

Let Him Speak Till He Finishes. Sit Down.

Do you know, I think it would be beautiful if the minister should stand up and speak just as long as it took him to give us his thought; simply and clearly, and then sit down. What would we do with the rest of the time? Well, if we must fill a certain set time with our worship there are many ways.

Beethoven's sixth sonata," said Stevenson, "has done me more good than all of the churches in Christendom."

Why not have Beethoven's sixth sonata (I use this merely as the symbol of the beautiful music that is the world's play)?

Or train the congregation to sing some of our fine old hymns in a way that shall thrill and inspire them as congregational singing should.

What Religion Ought to Accomplish.

Or let the minister or someone else, with the gift of musical speech read some of the finer passages from the Bible.

Or let the minister tell us of some inspiring deed he has read or heard of during the week. Reading about the man who gave up his fortune to the families of the girls who were burned in his factory thrilled and inspired me as much as a sermon.

The main functions of religion, as I see them, are to give us peace and make us want to be better.

Surely whatever form of church service can accomplish these ends is superior to any form of service that fails of them.

Glimpses of Married Life

By MRS. J. A. LEONARD

Dear Nell: I told you of our plan to leave people from knowing we were interested in each other. We could not escape. Rice and old shoes and old-fashioned but- tages at Detroit. We returned the verandah was vacant, as I hoped it would be. The night boat for the other end by the crocheting woman. I heard him say, "Yes, Hal is one of my boys."

I inquired many children have you?" I was panicky at once. What if the doctor had given a number and mine should not agree with his. I hardly know sometimes whether I have four or forty healthy children. I rushed over to where the doctor sat and you say you had "I whisked and I think it was a hundred and fifty last time I counted." There was a merry twinkle in his eye. "I've been practicing right year."

No help there. So I settled on four, my sister's three and your one. They all belong to me. I love them so dearly. When I sat down again I launched into a description of my children and their diseases. I described Hal's spasms and what I did for him and told of little Marjorie's whooping cough. In a full in the conversation, the doctor's voice floated serenely over. He was saying:

"No, my children have been remarkably healthy. I've never had to call a doctor for them."

The old maid looked suspiciously at me, and I reddened horribly. "He doesn't tell that he is a doctor himself," I said in an aside. "He wanted to forge all business on this trip."

So the day was saved.

I coached him as to the number of children and the diseases that had laid them low, after we went to our room. It was very exciting to act a part all the time. I plan every day the things we will do together when we get home in Fairport. Kiss "my boy" for me and remember me to Dick. The doctor is not here to send any messages.

Lovingly, OLIVE.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am acquainted with a young man who lives out of town. He is continually sending me letters and inviting me out. I like this boy and feel under obligations to him, as I accepted a most expensive piece of jewelry from him and now wish to return it; but he is very persistent in his ways and he will not take it back. Please advise me what to do.

(2) I am seventeen years old. How late should I stay out with a gentleman friend?

(3) How many times a week is it proper for a girl to stay out with her friends?

MOON FACE.

(1) Return the present to him by a letter, telling him as kindly, but as impressively as you can, that you do not care for his attentions any longer.

(2) A girl of seventeen is considered too young to have "moon face" friends. You ought not to go out at all in the evening unless accompanied by an older person. Then it is all right to stay out as long as it is necessary.

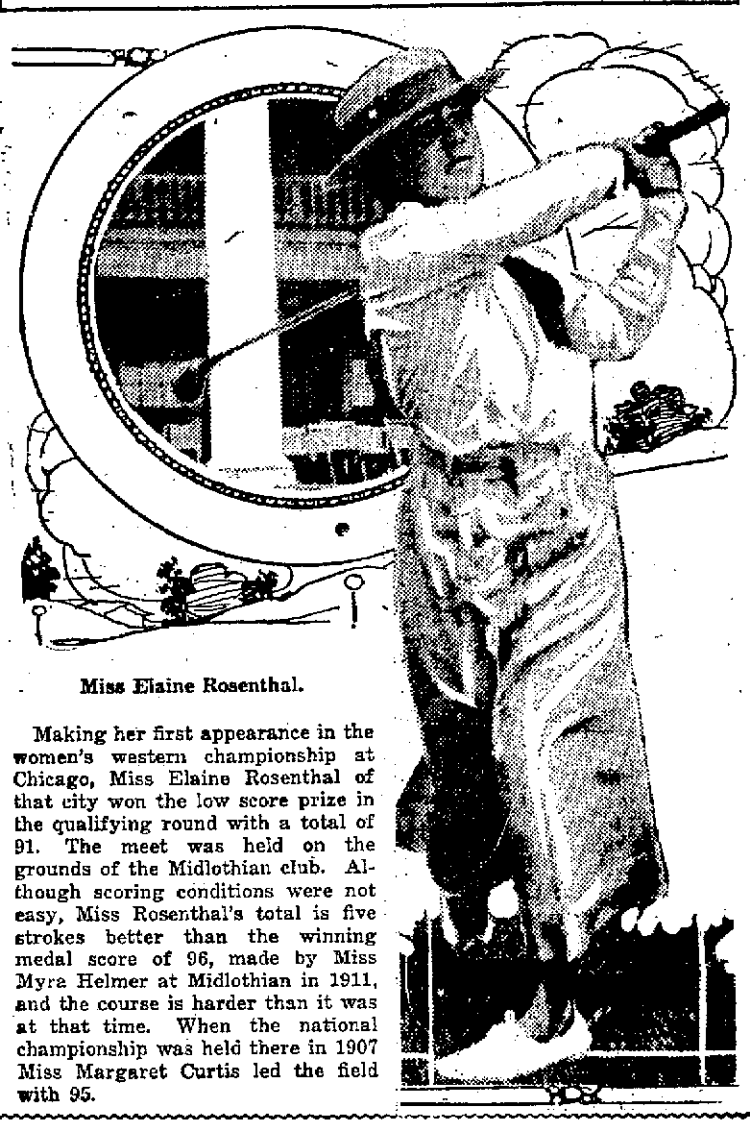

(3) If you entertain boys, entertain them at your home. Once a week is often enough for a girl of your age.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman twenty-four years old and have been married eight years. My husband is good to me in some ways and in some ways not so good. For the last two years he will not go any place. We live in the country and don't know anyone except the closest neighbors. I feel as though I will go mad if I have to go nineteen years old. I went with a fellow three months. I told him I didn't care for his company any more. Now, every time I go he tells me, "What could I do to make him stop following me?"

INQUISITIVE GIRLIE.

Sometimes when he follows you, stop and tell him how distasteful it is to you to have him follow you. Do it kindly and you will appeal to the good in his nature and I am sure he will cease annoying you.

LEADS WOMEN IN TITLE GOLF MEET

Miss Elaine Rosenthal.

Making her first appearance in the women's western championship at Chicago, Miss Elaine Rosenthal of that city won the low score prize in the qualifying round with a total of 91. The meet was held on the grounds of the Midlothian club. Although scoring conditions were not easy, Miss Rosenthal's total is five strokes better than the winning medal score of 96, made by Miss Myra Helmer at Midlothian in 1911, and the course is harder than it was at that time. When the national championship was held there in 1907 Miss Margaret Curtis led the field with 95.

One-Hour Soap Recipe.—Very easy to make and washes excellently. Take seventeen quarts rain water, two cups lye, eight pounds grease, one pound soda ash, one pound ros. in. Stir all together and let cook one hour.

THE TABLE.

Candied Ham.—Select large, good piece of ham, cover with cold water and boil for one hour. Drain off water, wash with cold water, and salt repeat the process. Pour off water and fry very slowly about five minutes. Sprinkle with sugar (granulated or brown) and brown. If ham hasn't enough fat on add sufficient butter in pan. This makes a very good Sunday morning breakfast.

Fried Beef.—Pick one-fourth pound dried beef in small bits and brown in butter; add one and one-half cups milk. Mix brown in butter; add one and one-half cups milk. Mix some flour with cold water and add to above, stirring constantly until boiling point is reached. Season with pepper and salt. Pour over toast.

Cabbage and Cheese. (neat substitute)—Parboil cabbage in salt water. When soft, place in baking dish—first a layer of cabbage, then a layer of cheese, etc., until baking dish is full, having a layer of grated cheese on top. Place several lumps of butter on top. Place in hot oven until cheese is melted and becomes brown on top.

Stuffed Green Peppers With Tomatoes.—Clean from seeds and wash peppers. Be careful just to split on top. Stuff with the following: Pork ground fine, amount of rice needed, two eggs, onions ground fine, pepper, salt, tablespoon of lard. Wash tomatoes, boil, skin seeds out and place to boil. Into this add stuffed peppers. Cook well together and pour sour cream over them. Serve warm.

USEFUL INFORMATION SECURED BY GERMANS FROM ALL TRAVELERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Rotterdam, Aug. 27.—So that no useful information may escape attention, the German government has instituted a very thorough system of examination of travelers crossing the frontier from Holland.

To deal with Americans there is on the staff of the commandant of the station on the border three officers who speak perfect English and have a thorough knowledge of the United States and Canada. One of them hails from Milwaukee, where he was educated in the public schools, another from St. Louis and the third from Montreal.

After the traveler has undergone an examination at the hands of a German non-commissioned officer, whose chief aim seems to be to find out whether he can speak or understand German, for Germans are suspicious of German speaking foreigners, he is handed over to the three English-speaking officers who entertain him lavishly and proceed to extract all the information that they can, especially if he has spent any time in England. When, as it often happens, the traveler seeks another and probably more valuable passenger.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Aug. 27.—The British army has decided to discontinue the use of the puttee, which has been the distinguishing leg wear of the British soldier for many years, and to substitute the Russian army boot. This decision was arrived at as a result of last winter's campaign in Flanders, when it was found that the cloth puttee was little or no protection against the mud and water and led to the men suffering, not from frost bitten, but from benumbed feet and legs. Large orders have already been given for boots, which will be supplied to the troops before winter sets in. The War Office anticipates another winter in mud and water-soaked trenches.

The puttee, which is to be discarded, was adopted because of its protection against snake bites in India, and became general throughout the British army, and in fact, has since the commencement of the present war been taken up by some of the continental armies. It, however, has proved useless under conditions prevailing in Europe, not only because of the lack of protection that it affords but because of the time it takes to put it on properly.

CHAPTER XVIII.

I Make Two Prisoners.

I saw him stare, open-mouthed, as though at a ghost. There was a startled look in his face, but no recognition. The same swift glimpse had revealed to me a discarded belt on the end of the desk, in which glittered the

"Now this other around his legs; strap him tight to the chair. Very good, indeed; you are learning your trade."

I tested the taut leather with one hand.

"That will hold you, colonel, all but your mouth, and I hope you have enough sense left to guard that yourself. Raymond," and my glance swept the walls of the room hastily; "I regret troubling you so much; it is like adding insult to injury—but would you reach me those overalls hanging on the hook behind you? Thank you; now turn that chair, so the back will be this way, and—sit down."

He knew what I meant, and there was an ugly look in his eyes, but I gave him no time for action. I gripped him by the collar, twisting my knuckles into his throat, and thrust him down into the chair seat with a violence which caused the fellow to gasp for breath.

"You move when I speak!" I said threateningly. "This is no boy's play. Now put your hands back—oh, farther than that; cross them over each other. Come, do you feel the steel? I do not like you any too well, Raymond; I know your treachery."

"I did nothing against you," he protested, wriggling about to gain glimpse of my face. "I had no authority here—"

"No, but you had influence, and used it against me. I got the story straight enough, and can guess the reason. Sit back straighter; there, I reckon that will hold."

I stood off and looked at the two of them, surprised at the ease with which I had accomplished the result, but entirely at sea as to my next movement. No plan, no hopeful possibility, occurred to me: I could but stare vacantly at my two prisoners, and about, at the walls of the room. Raymond was jammed back into one corner farthest from the door, his face white, every bit of nerve gone, and a red welt showing where my grip had contracted the flesh. The fellow actually looked pitiful he was so completely cowed. But Pickney was of a different kidney. He sat glaring angrily at me across the table, with face red as the rising sun, straining at the tough leather, his lips muttering incoherent threats of vengeance.

"I'll get you yet, you d—n rascal," I heard him growl, "and stretch your neck without any trial."

"And I'll gag that mouth of yours," I answered, "and keep it still for awhile. Oh, yes, you'll open up, my man! I know a trick that will make you bite the tighter I pull the cord. How about you, lieutenant? Would you like a dose of the same medicine?"

I stepped across to him, a strip of cloth in my hand, but just at that instant the latch of the door rattled as though a hand without gripped it. I had barely time in which to leap back against the wall, hidden from view, when the door opened inward. All I saw was the glimpse of a man's hand and sleeve. The fellow must have perceived nothing to alarm him, for he merely held the door ajar.

"A lady to see the colonel," he announced briefly. "Just step in, miss."

I saw her advance two steps, and then stop motionless, with half-suppressed cry of surprise. The sentry could not have heard the slight exclamation, for he closed the door, the latch clicking sharply. Her eyes opened wide, staring first at the colonel, then at Raymond, so startled at the discovery of their predicament as to be dazed. I took a step forward, and the swift light of recognition leaped into her eyes, as she leaned forward to scan me more closely in the dim light of the single lamp. I could not tell, I could not be sure, yet I thought the expression on her face was one of relief, of rejoicing.

"You!" she exclaimed, as though not yet half convinced of the truth. "You here—and free! What—what have you done to these men?"

I laughed lightly, so relieved by her reception as to feel a new man.

"Merely turned the tables; this time luck was on my side, and neither gentleman seemed eager to prove a hero. As you perceive, they are like lambs. They hardly looked it, for it ever murder glared concealed in the eyes of men, it did then; but they were helpless to move or express themselves—at least the colonel was, although he struggled fiercely. The younger officer made no attempt, his thin lips drawn back in a cruel snarl. I was certain there was a swift gleam of amusement in the girl's eyes, but it passed quickly as her glance again met mine.

"But you! Tell me; I must understand in order to know what to do. How did you come here?"

"From the big chimney. I had no suspicion this room was occupied, until I came face to face with these men. But they were more surprised than I. I got the guns first, and that ended it, but I cannot hold you up that way."

"There is no necessity."

"You!" She exclaimed. "You here, and free!"

"No," I could not keep the joyous note out of my voice. "You mean—"

"Merely that I came here seeking your release, or rather to urge that you be given a trial at Charleston. It is scarcely likely under all conditions, that I will prevent your escape, or attempt to do so. You saved me from a fate worse than death, and were captured while endeavoring to serve me. Surely you did not suppose I had forgotten? You received my message?"

"Yes, and was most thankful for it. I confess I had doubted before."

"I read your thoughts in your face; that was one reason why I wished to reassure you. I could not be ungrateful." She glanced across the room, and began again as though anxious to get upon another topic. "I requested Lieutenant Raymond to intercede in your behalf, and he pledged me his word to do so. Less than an hour ago I learned he was exerting his influence with Colonel Pickney against my wishes. I determined to come here in person and learn the truth. Have you any explanation, Lieutenant Raymond?"

"The fellow is a self-confessed spy," he asserted hoarsely. "There was nothing I could say to save him."

"Lieutenant, I made no request that you would intercede to save this man from his just fate under military law. My father was a soldier, and I know a soldier's duty. All I asked was that a soldier's duty. All I asked was that he be sent to Charleston, to the headquarters of this department, where he could have an impartial trial. If you had so advised Colonel Pickney, that would have been done. He would have gladly shifted the responsibility elsewhere. Now the full burden of decision falls on me. I must choose between two duties—my loyalty to the Union or to my husband."

Raymond certainly was no more startled than I at this avowal, perhaps less so, for although the words choked in his throat, he managed to give them utterance.

"Your husband! Good God! Do you mean to say you are married to this fellow?"

"I not only mean it," she said calmly, "but I have the proof with me. I tell you the fact merely to justify my action, for I intend to save him if I can. I wish Colonel Pickney to know why I do this—what conditions justify me in so rebellious a course. This man does not deserve death; he was captured while defending me from insult, and he is my husband. I should be unworthy the name of woman if I did not aid his escape."

She turned to me, her eyes eager. "Tom, you must do just as I say."

CHAPTER XIX.

The Lady Chooses.

She came across toward me, her back to the others, and spoke swiftly, yet in a low voice which did not carry to their ears.

"There is only one way possible for you to pass out of this building and through the camp safely. There are guards everywhere, and the orders are very strict; but I think we can go together. I know the countersign—Captain Fox is officer of the day, and trusted me with it. If—if you only had a uniform! Where is the one you wore?"

"My trip through the chimney left that in rags," I answered, impressed by her earnestness, and getting my wits together.

She glanced about the walls of the room, a glow between her eyes.

"That we must escape from the enemy," with a little nervous laugh. "You would never pass the sentry in the corridor wearing that suit. You will have to take the lieutenant's coat and cap. Be quick about it—and you need not be particularly gentle on my account."

"Nor on my own, either—Fox informed me of what he told you."

I was not long about the job, nor did Raymond make any resistance to the exchange forced upon him. I took no chances, blinding him with greater care than before, and fitting a gag into his mouth to silence any possible cry for help. Noreen stood close to the door, apparently listening for some noise without, yet occasionally directing her glance toward us anxiously.

"Are you ready?" she asked in a low whisper.

"Yes; but tell me your plan. I need to know what character I am to enact—Raymond?"

"Not at first; not in the hall. That would be useless, as there is a light burning. Listen," and she grasped my sleeve in both hands in her eagerness to explain. "There is a sentry stationed outside this door—the colonel's orderly, I presume, but fully armed, and two others at the front entrance. These are twenty or thirty feet away, and out of sight from this door. I am not particularly afraid of passing them."

"It's the fellow stationed here?"

"Yes; he will be suspicious of a stranger coming out with me, for he has seen everyone who came in."

"There is only one course to pursue, then. We must trust to force, and a quick assault which will give the fellow no time to raise an alarm. You go out alone, leaving the door slightly ajar, and engage him in conversation. Did he appear to be genial when you met him before?"

"Yes, rather eager to talk—a young man."

"Good; then you can gain his attention for a moment. Stand so that his back will be to the door."

"You are not going to kill him?"

"There will be no necessity; once I get my grip the affair will be over—you understand?"

Her lips were firmly set, her eyes gravely earnest. The light fell full on her face. I could not refrain from touching her hand.

"You will let me thank you!"

"Please do not speak of that—every moment now means so much. Yes, I understand perfectly; shall I go now?"

I nodded. Drawing slightly back behind the door, I thrust both revolvers into the belt I had retained; this was to be an affair of bare hands—swift, merciless, noiseless.

She grasped the latch, lifted her eyes to mine for a bare instant, then stepped out into the hall, her lips smiling, as she paused a moment to glance backward into the room.

"Very well, colonel; I shall certainly take her your message," she said gayly, "and I thank you so much."

Her fingers released the latch, leaving the door standing ajar.

"Oh, sentry," she said pleasantly, but with guarded voice; "I know it is perfectly ridiculous, but a strand of hair has become entangled in this clasp. Would you kindly see if you can free it?"

"Certainly, miss."

I heard him set down his musket against the wall, and step forward.

"On the other side," she suggested. "If you turn this way you will get the Announcement received this week at the postoffice is to the effect that after Sept. 1 parcel post packages may be insured to the extent of $100, twice the amount in vogue at the present time. Under the new ruling packages having a value of from one to five dollars will be insured for three cents; those of a value from five to twenty-five dollars for five cents; those ranging in value from twenty-five to fifty dollars for ten cents; and twenty-five cents insurance charge for packages with a value of between fifty and one hundred dollars.

A second new ruling received is that pertaining to receipts for parcel post packages. On the payment of the sum of one cent the clerk will present a receipt showing that the package has been mailed. This payment, however, does not insure the article mailed, but merely serves as a memorandum.

CAUTION IN STORING GRAIN IS EXPLAINED

Agronomist of Agricultural Experiment Station Gives Advice to Farmers on Subject.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., Aug. 27.—R. A. Moore, agronomist of the agricultural experiment station, has issued a warning to farmers to beware of storing seed grains while damp.
"Too much care has been exercised in the storing of seed grains," said Professor Moore. "In wet seasons like the present, much of the grain when threshed, will be damp, even though care has been taken to prevent it. Immediately after threshing, the grain should be stored in shallow bins or placed on a floor where it can be shoveled over frequently. Grain that is damp should never be stored in deep bins as it will soon start to heat and will not only be attacked by molds and other diseases, but it is liable to start to sprout, which reduces its vitality and germinating power. Grain that is moldy and musty should never be used for seed and it is almost a crime to force our farm animals to eat it. A little forethought on the part of the farmer in taking care of his seed and feeding grain before and after threshing will remedy this evil."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Gazette.

I cannot refrain from sending you congratulations on your editorial appearing in Wednesday night's Gazette under the caption "Who is to Blame?" It is certainly a deplorable state of affairs. In my observation very many times, I have found it the fault of parents. We all know that children are great imitators, hence the use of constant ungrammatical language in their presence is a continual drawback, and breeds illiteracy. Government has much to do in the life and improvement of children, we are all aware, and early teaching clings to one for many years—very often always. At one time I was constrained to ask a young lady if grammar was taught in her room in one of our graded schools. It would seem the greatest ambition of the present day among young people is to graduate and receive a diploma. They are rushed and rushed with brains so completely worn out, that a few weeks thereafter no thought is given the proper use of the English language. I am sure it would be well to master our own English perfectly before taking up the use of foreign languages. There seems to be too much of a smattering of studies in our schools and too little of thoroughness and real knowledge taught at the present time. In all eastern academies much time is given to the study of grammar, consequently very little illiteracy is known. The use of slang is painfully common among young people of today. Added to the deficiency above noted it is not true that the school graduate is utterly devoid of the proper use of orthography and punctuation; and yet when seeking employment they wonder why they are not successful. Truly there is much room for reform. A. P. K.

WHEELS WORKING IN THE BIGGER WHEELS

ADJOURNMENT OF LEGISLATURE DOES NOT END POLITICAL ACTIVITY OF TAX EATERS.

IS COMBINE POSSIBLE?

Rumored That LaFollette and McGovern Progressives Will Join Forces to Defeat Conservatives.

(By Bob Acres.) N. B. This is one of a series of articles on Wisconsin politics written exclusively for the Gazette.

Madison, Aug. 27.—I had hoped that the final adjournment of the legislature of nineteen fifteen would give us a rest from politics from the time being at least. However, it is not to be. The lying, insinuating campaign of misrepresentation which the ultra progressive and irresponsible press of the state maintained during the session of the legislature is being continued and is even more pernicious than ever.

During the legislative session they had some grounds for gossip but now they make stories out of whole cloth. Take part of this statement and part of that and combine the two into a tale intended to inflame the voters against the men who are seeking to end their material by reducing taxes. It is a shame that such conditions exist but they do and the only way to fight such reptiles is with their own weapons by telling what the unadorned facts really are.

Strenuous Times. It has been a strenuous winter for Governor Philipp and his friends. They did not count on the conflict unscratched and while they carried the majority of their contentions to successful issues, they lost some, notably the tax commission measure, but would have been invaluable to the state as a whole. However, the governor is taking the bull by the horns and going into the enemies' country and telling his audiences just what he had to go up against to accomplish what he did.

It is no wonder that the governor has placed such men as Whitte, Cleary, Kubasta, Moran, Weigle, former Governor, and others in responsible positions where they can aid him materially in his labors for the people. Still, however, the hostile press make much capital over his appointments and would have the public believe that instead of reducing taxation the governor is really increasing it by new appointments.

However, I may whisper a secret right here. These latest appointments will make it possible for the governor to make a decided cut in the salaries of some of the executive office holders who deliberately went out of their way to aid in the defeat of the administration measures, may find themselves bereft of a job and thereby actually to a living. This is coming so keep you pealed for the change and the dropping of names from the state payroll when the time comes.

Philipp's Plans. I do not know that I should mention this at this time but I guess it is pretty well understood that the conservative leaders are continually insisting that Governor Philipp come out as a candidate for the United States Senate against Robert M. La Follette in the 1916 campaign. They argue that Philipp has redeemed his promise, promises despite an adverse lobby of educational and liquor interests, the strangest combination that ever existed, and that the people look to him for further work in cleaning up the political situation by defeating the High Priest of the progressive fanaticism for the job in the United States Senate.

Was it not former Attorney General Bennett at a Jopville banquet of the Twentieth club that characterized La Follette as the "Mad Mullard" of Wisconsin politics? I think it was, and anyway, it comes in at the mind of many. If Philipp should back with favor on the suggestion he be a candidate for the senate there is nothing left for the conservatives to do but select the best possible timber available for the gubernatorial candidate and the name of Laurence C. Whitte, assemblyman from the first district of Rock county, Speaker of the assembly who never missed a session and whose work was so fair and impartial that he received words of praise from all factions, is most favorably mentioned.

Whitte? The Man. This may surprise some readers but it is true just the same. Whitte would make an admirable candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. He is a sound keen man. He has a cool head. He knows thoroughly the affairs of state and the needs and he is intensely popular with all classes of politicians and voters. Think it over and do not be surprised if my guess comes true when the final accounting is made.

Of course in order to strengthen the hands of the progressives there must be some combination of organizations. At present they are divided between the La Follette, the McGovern and the Bull Moose camps. The Milwaukee Daily News to show that a combination of this kind is now being considered and may be effected shortly, means a quiet pro quo on the part of the McGovern people in the way of support of Senator La Follette for the republican nomination of United States senator.

Plans in Air. Whether any reconciliation on this basis for a combination will be effected no one here seems able to say. In fact, it is claimed that the La Follette plans are still indefinite and that it is doubtful whether the senator or any of his close leaders are making any plans yet as to the combination or in doing so will the political situation is more clear.

The La Follette men do not deny, however, that there has been talk of a combination of the McGovern and La Follette forces but they say that they do not think there has been any announcement to the La Follette forces on the part of Governor McGovern to be a gubernatorial candidate again.

Senator Wants Union. It is known, however, that Senator La Follette feels that there must be a union of the former progressive forces in this state and that one of the objects of his visit here is to lay the foundation for such a union. Whether he would go so far as to agree to support Governor McGovern for governor or in his efforts to effect a consolidation of the progressive forces is a question.

The senator goes to Washington the last of this week but will be back in the state again within the next two weeks.

EDITOR AT PRISON GRANTED CLEMENCY

Writer at Stillwater Penitentiary Will Depart at the End of Week After Long Confinement.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 27.—The editor of the Stillwater State Prison Mirror, whose writings have attracted considerable attention in Minnesota and in other states, has been granted clemency by the state board of parole and will depart from the prison before the end of the present week.

In the current issue of the paper the editor, whose name was not made public by the board of parole, bids farewell to his fellow convicts and expresses sadness at the parting, "although we have the joyful prospect of once more breathing free air and dwelling where one's soul can once more be one's own and God's."

"During our incarceration here," the editor continues, "we have learned one lesson never to be forgotten. We have learned there is no gold here among all the dross; that there are within these walls as good and true hearts as ever dared to throb, men who would make the world better by living in it were they all given the chance. We have formed deep-rooted friendships that will last until the last rays of life's light are extinguished."

"Now we go out into the land of freedom to find out if a free man can for those who are dearer to us than our own life ever can be. Those who have had the fingers of scorn point at them from all corners, they who have suffered untold, indescribable hardships and deprivations because of our absence from the family hearth."

"Our greatest sorrow in saying good-bye is that we cannot take you all along to share our joy and freedom with us. But memory will keep enshrined your names on the tablets of our hearts; stone walls and iron bars shall not break the links of kindness and friendship."

"So good-bye, one and all; good-bye dear old Mirror. May you ever prosper and continue to bring cheer to those who may be so unfortunate as to get here from where we now go forth; may you ever continue to boldly proclaim the rights of the convicted men and women; may you never cease in the good cause for which you were intended and have steadfastly maintained, and may the time soon come when you can prove to all as you have proved to many, that the word 'convict' does not particularly apply to any one class of people, but that those in prison are 'even as you and I—just ordinary human beings.'"

May you ever prosper and continue to bring cheer to those who may be so unfortunate as to get here from where we now go forth; may you ever continue to boldly proclaim the rights of the convicted men and women; may you never cease in the good cause for which you were intended and have steadfastly maintained, and may the time soon come when you can prove to all as you have proved to many, that the word 'convict' does not particularly apply to any one class of people, but that those in prison are 'even as you and I—just ordinary human beings.'"

Philipp's Plans. I do not know that I should mention this at this time but I guess it is pretty well understood that the conservative leaders are continually insisting that Governor Philipp come out as a candidate for the United States Senate against Robert M. La Follette in the 1916 campaign. They argue that Philipp has redeemed his promise, promises despite an adverse lobby of educational and liquor interests, the strangest combination that ever existed, and that the people look to him for further work in cleaning up the political situation by defeating the High Priest of the progressive fanaticism for the job in the United States Senate.

Was it not former Attorney General Bennett at a Jopville banquet of the Twentieth club that characterized La Follette as the "Mad Mullard" of Wisconsin politics? I think it was, and anyway, it comes in at the mind of many. If Philipp should back with favor on the suggestion he be a candidate for the senate there is nothing left for the conservatives to do but select the best possible timber available for the gubernatorial candidate and the name of Laurence C. Whitte, assemblyman from the first district of Rock county, Speaker of the assembly who never missed a session and whose work was so fair and impartial that he received words of praise from all factions, is most favorably mentioned.

Whitte? The Man. This may surprise some readers but it is true just the same. Whitte would make an admirable candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. He is a sound keen man. He has a cool head. He knows thoroughly the affairs of state and the needs and he is intensely popular with all classes of politicians and voters. Think it over and do not be surprised if my guess comes true when the final accounting is made.

Of course in order to strengthen the hands of the progressives there must be some combination of organizations. At present they are divided between the La Follette, the McGovern and the Bull Moose camps. The Milwaukee Daily News to show that a combination of this kind is now being considered and may be effected shortly, means a quiet pro quo on the part of the McGovern people in the way of support of Senator La Follette for the republican nomination of United States senator.

Plans in Air. Whether any reconciliation on this basis for a combination will be effected no one here seems able to say. In fact, it is claimed that the La Follette plans are still indefinite and that it is doubtful whether the senator or any of his close leaders are making any plans yet as to the combination or in doing so will the political situation is more clear.

The La Follette men do not deny, however, that there has been talk of a combination of the McGovern and La Follette forces but they say that they do not think there has been any announcement to the La Follette forces on the part of Governor McGovern to be a gubernatorial candidate again.

Senator Wants Union. It is known, however, that Senator La Follette feels that there must be a union of the former progressive forces in this state and that one of the objects of his visit here is to lay the foundation for such a union. Whether he would go so far as to agree to support Governor McGovern for governor or in his efforts to effect a consolidation of the progressive forces is a question.

The senator goes to Washington the last of this week but will be back in the state again within the next two weeks.

STATE FIXES PRICE FOR CHOLERA SERUM

Recent Reports Show That Farmers in Some Districts Pay too Much for Hog Cholera Serum.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Madison, Wis., Aug. 27.—Recent reports indicate that in some sections of the state farmers are paying "long prices" for supplies of hog cholera serum with which to vaccinate their herds. A few veterinarians, who are buying the serum at low rates and selling it at considerably more than the prices charged by the state, during the past two or three years hog cholera has been so widely spread throughout the middle west that all commercial and state plants manufacturing hog cholera have increased their capacity to a maximum in order to supply the demand for their product. Even then it was often impossible to secure reliable serum at any price.

In the opinion of sanitary authorities who have most to do with hog cholera, the disease is much less prevalent than formerly. Greater knowledge of the plague and its prevention and control, wider use of hog cholera serum and natural dying out of the disease are given as causes. Due to lessened sales and increased production, some of the large commercial companies have been overstocked with serum. The same thing, in a lesser degree, is true of the state plants. As serum is a perishable article, it is important to move surplus stock. With a large supply and slack demand, hog cholera serum falls off rapidly in price.

Serum can be purchased today for from one-half to three-quarters of a cent a cubic centimeter. It takes, depending upon the size, from 15 to 100 cubic centimeters to treat one hog. When the farmer's hogs are vaccinated he may be charged not only for the work but in many cases from two to three cents a cubic centimeter for the serum. Or the serum company may sell the serum and, by previous arrangement, make a rebate to the veterinarian doing the work. The objection comes when the farmer finds that he has paid two or three times the market price for serum, and he represents it on the state board of education are among the members listed. Appropriations for the various schools will be taken up. At this time the board will discuss what steps to take in the building of the Oshkosh normal school and in building improvements at the Superior institution.

The re-election of Theodore Kronenberger as president of the board of the state board, are among the probabilities. Read the want ads every day. What you are looking for may be there.

WAUPUN PRISON CROWDED DESPITE THE NEW CELLS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Waupun, Wis., Aug. 27.—Even the construction of the new cell wing at the state prison here can hardly take care of the increased population of the institution. ARRIVAL OF WOUNDED SOLDIERS IN LONDON WATCHED BY CROWDS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] London, Aug. 27.—One of the sights of London is the arrival of wounded soldiers at Charing Cross station. The crowd gathers there about 5 o'clock every day and the day is passed since the war without the arrival of a varying number of victims of shot, shell and gas, the crowd never lessens.

Charing Cross station used to be the brightest and most interesting station in London, for most of the travel with the continent passed there. It stands just off Trafalgar Square in the Strand, near the center of the west end shopping district. Before the arrival of the Red Cross train, the ambulance motors form in a line in a narrow side street. Ordinary motor cars are used for the slightly wounded and ambulances for the badly wounded. The platforms in the great stations are kept clear, but the sightseers, who are largely women, gather in the forecourt waiting for the big iron gates to open and let out the stream of slow moving cars, which pass from the side street into the station and then out.

People are attracted to Charing Cross less from curiosity than to show their sympathy. The men in the crowd always raise their hats as the wounded go by.

AUSTRALIANS USE TRENCH MORTARS AT DARDANELLES IN FIGHTING TURKS

Trench mortar.

This curious weapon which is being used with such telling effect against the Turks in the Dardanelles campaign is a trench mortar, and one of the new engines of war which has been brought into play during the present European affair. It is mounted on boxes, and, judging from the way it is handled when fired, there is considerable risk attached to the operator of the weapon, for while one arm directs the fire of the trench mortar the other arm pulls the slug which sets it off.

MAKING BIG "FILL" ON N. VISTA AVENUE

Laying First Foundation Stone Work on South Bluff Street Pavement Job.—Putting in Water Mains.

Tons of dirt are being dumped in a hollow at the end of North Vista avenue and the "fill" promises to be of utmost importance to this street. For the past two weeks dirt that has been taken from the excavation work on South Bluff and Wisconsin streets, where asphalt macadam pavement is to be laid, has been dumped into the fill and much more will have to be placed in the hole to have the grade conform with the rest of the street. The city is planning to grade down some distance on each side of the "fill," and the drainage problem of the hollow is a debatable problem.

This morning the GundGraham company were placing the foundation stone for the pavement work on two blocks on South Bluff street and the excavation work on both streets has been completed. The first course is six inches thick and after being graded to conform to the specifications will be rolled down below the curb line and finer stone placed on top. Then comes the granite and asphalt binder, and the city officials are awaiting the success of the Aztec asphalt because of the difference in the board of public works to recommend this brand of asphalt. A shipment of Aztec has been received and inspection of the material this morning showed it to be of great ductility and would easily soften under the rays of the sun, showing good running qualities. Whether the material would prove satisfactory when laid on the streets could not be determined at this time.

On Wisconsin street the water department is laying water mains and has completed about a block of the work. The trench, dug on the east side of the street, is six feet deep. At the end of Second street the city is dumping dirt to fill a hollow that was caused by repeated washouts. The drain pipes were exposed by the asphalt and at present a sluiceway has been constructed to prevent further trouble.

Two more cars of street oil were ordered this morning and it is now doubtful if the street department will be able to complete the oiling by the end of the week. "We have had more trouble in oiling this year than in all the other years combined," said Thomas McKean, foreman of the street squad this morning. "The weather conditions hurt the results and checked quick work."

Amateur Local Motion Picture Actors Appear on Screen at Myers Theatre Last Evening.

In addition to the regular motion picture program at the Myers Theatre last evening, Myers patrons were treated to a film-drama, entitled "A Janesville Summer Day," in which appeared a number of well known local young people, many of whom showed decided screen ability.

Besides the local film drama there were shown a number of motion picture scenes in and around Janesville, all of which were decidedly good.

These pictures will be shown again this evening and Saturday and Sunday matinee and on evenings in addition to some special feature pictures.

DAYTON COPS HAVE OWN CHIROPODIST; WHY NOT A MANICURE ON EVERY BEAT?

The cops of Dayton are excessively handsome and they have their own private chiropodist.

A VALET FOR THEM WITH TOILET THINGS AT HAND WOULD BE NICE.

The police force of Dayton, Ohio, has the care of a chiropodist whose whole time is engaged in easing the pains in their feet. The commission government of Dayton has discovered that the feet are a vital part of policemen and must be kept in proper shape. If the truth were known, policemen may require as great attention in other ways that they may do the best possible policing. The day may come when they will set forth on their beats followed by a retinue of manicures, valets, massage experts and others, as pointed out in the picture.

Boric Acid for Styes. Boric acid is a mild, soothing antiseptic and is one of the best remedies known for styes. Physicians recommend bathing and soaking the afflicted eye for half an hour twice a day in a warm saturated solution of mercuric oxide in vaseline.

Grieving Cow Adopts Eight Lambs. The maternal affection of a cow at the Morton Sheep company's ranch, near Douglas, Wyo., has been satisfied by the adoption of eight motherless lambs. The cow grieved when she lost her calf, but her new family appears to please her greatly.
